THE

DEMONSTRATIVE

ADJECTIVES

Part 3

THE DEMONSTRATIVE ADJECTIVES

- The Demonstrative Adjectives demonstrate where a specific noun is located. In English, the Demonstrative Adjectives are (this, that, these and those). Spanish is a little more exact than English. In fact, it has a set of Demonstrative Adjectives that we don't have in English. We can get across the same idea only by explaining it. In Spanish:
- This= este, esta= ("this" denotes that the object is singular, and that the object is near the speaker).
- These= estos, estas = ("These" denotes that the object is plural and near the speaker)
- That = ese, esa = ("that" denotes that the object is singular and that it is located near the listener)
- Those = esos, esas = ("Those" denotes that the objects are plural and near the listener)
- That (way over there) = aquel, aquella = ("that" way over there denotes that the
- object is singular and that the object is not near the speaker nor the listener)
- Those (way over there) = aquellos, aquellas = those (way over there) denotes that the objects are plural and not near the speaker nor the listener)!
